DRIED ANCHOVY

Behind every anchovy is the hard work of fishermen who head out to sea early in the morning to bring in the best catch. 🐟 After being caught, the anchovies are carefully sorted, cleaned, and dried using proper methods to preserve their natural taste, texture, nutrients, and quality.

From the coast, the anchovies continue their journey through packaging and distribution to distributors, wholesalers, and markets around the world. From the waters of Indonesia to tables around the world every anchovy carries a story of fishermen, process, and quality.

Our Project 01

Developing authentic Indonesian ready-to-eat anchovy sambal with peanuts and a variety of flavors: Balado, Green Chili, and Mango Sambal

Our Project 02

Bringing Indonesian anchovy products to international distributors, wholesalers, retailers, and foodservice markets with consistent quality, practical packaging, and authentic local flavors.

OUR PROJECT

Our anchovies begin with the hard work of local fishermen, who carefully catch fresh anchovies from the waters of Indonesia. After landing, the anchovies are carefully sorted and cleaned before being naturally dried using proper methods to preserve their taste, texture, and quality. Each batch goes through careful selection to ensure only the best anchovies are prepared for our customers.

For our ready-to-eat products, the dried anchovies are further processed with selected ingredients and authentic Indonesian flavors. Every product undergoes quality control and laboratory testing before being carefully packed in hygienic, export-ready packaging. From the sea, drying and sorting, to processing, laboratory testing, and final packaging, every step is carried out to deliver safe, consistent, and high-quality anchovy products.
